SHEA'S SNACKLACES

Brand Style Guide

Visual Branding & Verbal Voice Guidelines

For use across .com | Email | Social Media | Posters | Product Descriptions

“Wear It. Snack It. Love It.”

Fun to Wear. Even Better to Eat.

Table of Contents

- 1. Brand Foundation
- 2. Visual Identity Guide
- 2.1 Logo & Mark
- 2.2 Color Palette
- 2.3 Typography
- 2.4 Imagery & Illustration Style
- 2.5 Layout in Action (Poster Examples)
- 2.6 Visual Do's and Don'ts
- 3. Verbal Identity & Voice Guide
- 3.1 Brand Voice Pillars
- 3.2 Tone by Channel
- 3.3 Word Bank: Say This, Not That
- 3.4 Kid-Humor Playbook
- 3.5 Writing & Grammar Rules
- 4. Channel Playbooks & Examples
- 4.1 Website (.com)
- 4.2 Email
- 4.3 Social Media
- 4.4 Posters & Print
- 4.5 Product Descriptions
- 5. Quick-Reference Cheat Sheet

1. Brand Foundation

Our Story

Shea's Snacklaces started with a simple idea from a 7-year-old: snacks are more fun when you can wear them first and eat them second. What began as a kid's craft project turned into a real, growing snack business — handmade pretzel and snack necklaces that are as fun to make as they are to munch.

Our Mission

To make snack time feel like playtime — for kids and grown-ups alike — with tasty, wearable treats and a brand that never takes itself too seriously.

Who We're Talking To

Shea's Snacklaces speaks to two audiences at once, in the same voice:

- Kids (ages 5–12): who want something fun, silly, and cool to wear and share.
- Parents & grown-ups: who want copy that's clear, trustworthy, and charming — not childish or hard to follow.

The Golden Rule

If a 7-year-old and their grandparent can both read a line and smile, it's on-brand. If either one is confused, rewrite it.

Brand Personality — In Five Words

- Playful — we find the fun in everything, always.
- Proud — a real kid built this, and we celebrate that.
- Simple — short words, short sentences, zero confusion.
- Silly-Smart — kid humor that still makes sense to adults.
- Genuine ‘ no fake hype, no over-selling — just true excitement.

2. Visual Identity Guide

2.1 Logo & Mark

The primary mark is a circular sticker badge featuring Shea's cartoon likeness wearing a pretzel necklace, wrapped by the brand name in playful, rounded lettering. It's designed to work as a sticker, stamp, favicon, or packaging seal.

Usage Rules

- Clear space: always keep space equal to the width of the pretzel icon around all sides of the logo — don't let text or images crowd it.
- Minimum size: never shrink the logo below 0.75″ (for print) or 60px (for digital) — the face and text need to stay readable.
- Backgrounds: place on white, yellow, or teal fields. Avoid busy photo backgrounds behind the logo.
- Color: always use the full-color version. Do not recolor, apply gradients, or convert to flat black-and-white for marketing use.
- Do not stretch, skew, rotate, or add drop shadows/effects beyond what's shown in the master file.

2.2 Color Palette

Shea's Snacklaces uses a confetti-inspired palette that feels like a birthday party: sunny, warm, and energetic. Every color should feel bold and saturated — no pastels, no muted tones.

Swatch	Color Name	Hex	Primary Usage
	Sunshine Yellow	`#FFC923`	Primary background — the ‘party tablecloth' of the brand
	Snack Coral	`#F05534`	Headlines, taglines, CTA buttons, energy accents
	Twist Teal	`#0CBFA5`	Brand name lockups, secondary headlines, links
	Pretzel Gold	`#FFAD00`	Icon fills, bead accents, highlight details

	Toasty Brown	`#7E4910`	Pretzel illustrations, outlines, grounding neutral

Rule of thumb: use Sunshine Yellow as the dominant field color in ~60% of a layout, Coral + Teal for ~30% (headlines/accents), and Pretzel Gold + Toasty Brown for the remaining ~10% (icons/details).

2.3 Typography

Two font roles keep every material feeling consistent, whether it's a poster or a product tag.

Role	Recommended Font	Where to Use
Display / Headlines	Fredoka (or Baloo 2, Chewy)	Logo lockups, poster titles, website hero headlines, social graphic titles — bold, rounded, and bubbly like the existing posters
Body / Readable Text	Quicksand or Poppins	Product descriptions, email body copy, website paragraphs, captions — rounded but simple to read at small sizes

- Headlines are ALWAYS in Title Case or ALL CAPS with a bold outline treatment, matching the existing poster style.
- Body copy is sentence case — never all caps, so it stays easy for young readers.
- Avoid thin/light font weights — they read as too formal and not kid-friendly.

2.4 Imagery & Illustration Style

- Confetti sprinkles: scatter teal, coral, and gold confetti marks across backgrounds for energy — never overcrowd the focal image.
- Bold outlines: every icon and character uses a thick, dark brown/black outline (cartoon-sticker style).
- Rounded shapes: pretzels, circles, and beads are drawn soft and rounded — nothing sharp or angular.
- Mascot: Shea's cartoon likeness can appear wearing a snacklace, always smiling, in the brand's flat-illustration style.
- Photography (if used): bright, natural light, hands actually wearing/eating the product — keep it candid and joyful, not overly staged.

2.5 Layout in Action — Poster Examples

These existing assets are the gold standard for how color, type, and imagery come together:

Notice how both follow the same formula: yellow field → coral + teal headline lockup → product icons → supporting tagline → confetti throughout.

2.6 Visual Do's and Don'ts

✓ Do	✕ Don't
Use the full confetti-yellow background as the default canvas	Use muted, pastel, or corporate color schemes
Keep outlines thick and colors saturated	Use thin lines or washed-out colors
Pair coral + teal for maximum pop	Use more than 4-5 colors in one layout
Keep the mascot smiling and mid-action (wearing/eating)	Use stock photos that feel corporate or posed

3. Verbal Identity & Voice Guide

3.1 Brand Voice Pillars

Every piece of writing — from a web button to a caption — should hit these five notes:

Pillar	What It Means	Example Line
Playful	Every sentence should sound like it's having fun	"Go ahead — wear your snack!"
Simple	Short words, short sentences, 2nd-grade reading level	"Pretzels you can wear. Then eat."
Kid-Powered	Remind people a real kid built this — with pride, not gimmick	"Made by a kid. Approved by everyone."
Silly-Smart	Puns and jokes that land for both kids and adults	"Knot your average snack."
Genuine	No fake hype words, no corporate-speak	"We think it's pretty great. You will too."

3.2 Tone by Channel

The voice stays the same everywhere — the energy dial just turns up or down depending on where it's read.

Channel	Energy	Notes
.Com (Website)	Medium-High	Warm and welcoming; a little more info-forward so parents can find prices/ordering fast
Email	Medium	Friendly and direct — get to the good news (new flavor, order ready) quickly
Social Media	High	Max silliness, puns, emojis, and exclamation points — this is the brand's playground
Posters / Print	High	Bold, punchy, few words — let the visuals carry most of the message
Product Descriptions	Medium	Playful but clear — always state what it is before the joke

3.3 Word Bank: Say This, Not That

✓ Say This	✕ Not That
Wear it, snack it, snacklace	Consume, accessory, merchandise

Made by a kid, handmade, homemade	Artisanal, small-batch (too grown-up/foodie)
Yummy, tasty, delicious, crunchy	Gourmet, exquisite, premium
Grab one, try it, get yours	Purchase, procure, acquire
Fun, silly, awesome, cool	Innovative, disruptive, revolutionary
Short sentences. Simple words.	Complex/compound sentences with jargon

3.4 Kid-Humor Playbook

Kid humor works when it's an obvious, groan-worthy pun or a silly exaggeration — never sarcasm, never anything an adult has to explain to a kid (or vice versa).

The Formula

- Pun on snack words: knot, twist, pretzel-logic, crunch time.
- Exaggeration a kid would make: “the best snack in the ENTIRE universe.”
- Simple wordplay on wearing + eating: “double duty snack.”

Example Lines

“Knot your average snack.”
“This necklace has a hole-y good secret — it's edible!”
“Fashion that's also a snack? Now THAT'S a good idea.”
“Warning: may cause extreme snacking and/or extreme cuteness.”
“Twist it. Taste it. Trust us — it's good.”

Test: read the joke out loud. If you need to explain it, cut it. The best kid humor needs zero explanation.

3.5 Writing & Grammar Rules

- Sentences: keep to 12 words or fewer whenever possible.
- Reading level: aim for a 2nd–3rd grade reading level (short, common words).
- Punctuation: exclamation points are welcome — but use no more than 1–2 per paragraph so they still feel special.
- Emojis: fine for social media and email (pretzel, party popper, star), skip them on the website and printed posters to keep those clean.
- Numbers: always use numerals for prices (“$3” not “three dollars”) so kids and parents can scan fast.
- Never use: jargon, marketing buzzwords, or anything sarcastic that could read as mean.

4. Channel Playbooks & Examples

4.1 Website (.com)

The website is where curious parents dig in for details, so pair the playful voice with clear info (prices, ordering, flavors).

Homepage Hero Example

Headline: "Snacks You Wear. Then Eat."

Subhead: Handmade snacklaces made by a real 7-year-old snack boss. Pick your flavor, wear it proud, snack whenever you want.

Button: "Shop Snacklaces →"

About Shea Section Example

Hi, I'm Shea! I made my first snacklace because I wanted a snack I could wear to school. Now I make them for you too. Every necklace is handmade with love (and a little bit of glitter energy). Thanks for snacking with me!

- Navigation labels: keep it simple — "Shop," "Our Story," "Flavors," "Contact Us."
- CTA buttons: always start with a verb — "Shop Now," "Grab Yours," "See Flavors."

4.2 Email

Emails should feel like a fun update from Shea — short, warm, and easy to scan on a phone.

Subject Line Examples

- "Your snacklace is ready! [pretzel emoji]"
- "New flavor alert: Fruit Circles are here!"
- "Psst… want a snack you can wear?"

Sample Email Body

Hi there!

Great news — your Snacklaces order is all packed up and ready to go! [party emoji]

Thanks for snacking (and wearing) with us. See you next order!

— Shea [pretzel emoji]

- Sign-off: always sign as "— Shea" to keep the personal, kid-founder feel.
- Length: keep emails under 100 words — one idea per email.

4.3 Social Media

Social is the brand's playground — maximum fun, puns, and emojis live here.

Caption Examples

"Knot your average Tuesday! [sparkle emoji] New Chocolate Circles just dropped!"
"Who else snacks AND accessorizes at the same time? [pretzel emoji]"
"Friendship bracelets are cool. Friendship snacklaces? Cooler. [heart emoji]"

Hashtag Bank

- #SheasSnacklaces #WearItSnackIt #SnackTimeIsPlayTime #KidBossSnacks #PretzelPower

Content Pillar Ideas

- Behind-the-scenes: Shea making a batch (builds the kid-founder story).
- Flavor spotlight: quick, punny intro to each menu item.
- Customer snaps: kids/families wearing their snacklaces — reshare with a fun caption.
- Silly polls/questions: "Wear it first or eat it first?"

4.4 Posters & Print

Posters lead with visuals — keep copy to a headline + one supporting line, just like the existing assets.

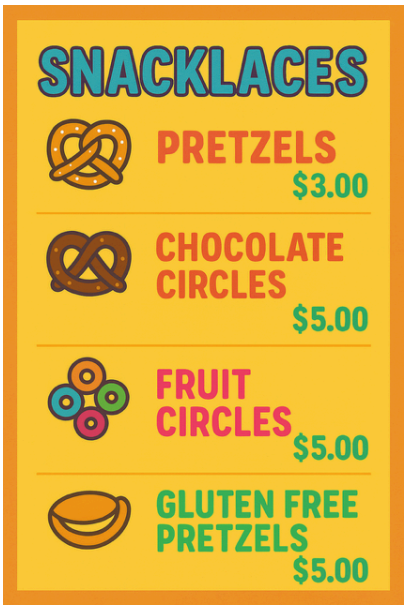

- Headline: 3–6 words max (e.g., "Wear It. Snack It. Love It.")
- Supporting line: one short sentence (e.g., "Fun to Wear. Even Better to Eat.")
- Always include the logo sticker mark in a bottom corner or top of the layout.
- Leave the confetti and product illustrations to do the visual storytelling — don't overcrowd with text.

See Section 2.5 for the current poster examples that set this standard.

4.5 Product Descriptions

Each description follows a simple formula: what it is → a fun sensory detail → a playful kicker line.

Item	Price	Description Copy
Pretzels	$3.00	Classic, salty, and ready to wear. Our original snacklace — twist it on and snack whenever you want!
Chocolate Circles	$5.00	Sweet, chocolatey rings strung up and ready to rock. Warning: may disappear before you even leave the house.
Fruit Circles	$5.00	A rainbow of fruity rings for your neck (and your taste buds). Wear the whole rainbow — then eat it too!
Gluten Free Pretzels	$5.00	All the twisty, salty fun — made gluten free so everyone can wear (and snack) along.

SNACKLACES
PRETZELS
$3.00
CHOCOLATE CIRCLES
$5.00
FRUIT CIRCLES
$5.00
GLUTEN FREE PRETZELS
$5.00

5. Quick-Reference Cheat Sheet

Keep this page open while writing any Snacklaces content — it's the fast version of everything above.

Colors

- Sunshine Yellow #FFC923 • Snack Coral #F05534 • Twist Teal #0CBFA5 • Pretzel Gold #FFAD00 • Toasty Brown #7E4910

Fonts

- Display: Fredoka / Baloo 2 / Chewy (bold, rounded, bubbly)
- Body: Quicksand / Poppins (rounded, easy to read)

Taglines

- “Wear It. Snack It. Love It.”
- “Fun to Wear. Even Better to Eat.”

Voice Pillars

- Playful • Simple • Kid-Powered • Silly-Smart • Genuine

The Golden Rule

If a 7-year-old and their grandparent can both read it and smile, it's on-brand.

Menu & Pricing

- Pretzels – $3.00 | Chocolate Circles – $5.00 | Fruit Circles – $5.00 | Gluten Free Pretzels – $5.00